ARCSIGHT SELECTED FOR 'THE NEXT BIG THING' PANEL AT ENTERPRISE 2004

CEO Robert Shaw to Present on ArcSight's Success in Enterprise Security Management

Sunnyvale, Calif. – May 4th, 2004 – ArcSight, the leading provider of enterprise security management software, has been named one of five participants for "the Next Big Thing" panel at the prestigious Enterprise 2004 conference sponsored by Sand Hill Group, a leading technology investment and consulting firm.

The conference, which will take place May 2 – 4 at the Ritz-Carlton in Lake Las Vegas, brings together CEOs and leaders from diverse sectors of the enterprise computing industry to candidly share ideas and opinions, and debate strategic issues of common interest. The event, which is in its seventh year, invites five finalists representing “the cream of the enterprise crop” to present as part of its Next Big Thing award competition. ArcSight Chairman and CEO Robert Shaw will present on the enterprise security management market, ArcSight’s successes since its founding in 2000, and the company’s future plans for cutting-edge security management of Global 2000 and government networks.

“By linking security management to key business assets and processes, ArcSight delivers a leading-edge, timely solution to today’s increasingly complex IT security problem,” said M.R. Rangaswami, co-founder of Sand Hill Group and a driving force behind the conference. “The company’s rapid growth and success are testament to its ability to address a pressing market need.”

“In today’s increasingly threatened network environment, the importance of enterprise security management in large organizations cannot be overstated,” said Robert Shaw, Chairman and CEO, ArcSight. “Enterprise 2004 will be an excellent venue to describe ArcSight’s tremendous growth, driven by our unique ability to not only increase the efficiency and effectiveness of the security organization, but to link security activities to the overall enterprise mission.”
